CLEVELAND, OH – Reminger Co., LPA is pleased to announce that attorney Martin T. Galvin has been honored by the Academy of Medicine of Cleveland & Northern Ohio (AMCNO) with the Presidential Citation Award for 2016. Marty was selected by the AMCNO Honors Committee and AMCNO President Dr. Matthew Levy for his leadership over the past year in assisting the organization with updates and input on appellate cases that could impact the tort reform laws in Ohio. The award was bestowed upon Marty at the AMCNO Annual meeting on Friday, April 15th.

Marty serves as Co-Chair of Reminger's Appellate Practice Group. Since joining Reminger in 2001, Marty's practice has focused on appellate law, professional liability, and business and employment litigation.

Marty practices in state courts throughout the State of Ohio, including the Ohio Supreme Court, as well as in federal courts in Ohio and elsewhere. He has tried dozens of lawsuits, both jury and bench trials, including employment cases, legal malpractice, shareholder and partnership disputes, insurance coverage, and U.S.C. § 1983 litigation. Marty has briefed and/or argued more than 100 cases in the Ohio Court of Appeals, including appeals in almost every Ohio appellate district, The Ohio Supreme Court, as well as the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, and the United States Supreme Court.

"We are very proud of this notable recognition by the AMCNO," said Reminger Managing Partner Stephen Walters. "As evidenced by this award, Marty has built a great reputation in the appellate advocacy arena. We look forward to his continued success in the future."
